Item 4 - Advisory Business

General Information

Trademark Capital Management Inc. (“TCM” or “we”) was formed in 1995, and provides institutional advisory services to other investment professionals, retirement plans and private funds. We also provide personalized wealth management services including financial planning and portfolio management services. TCM also does business under the name “Trademark Capital Asset Management.”

Joseph G. Ezernack, II. and Donald Beasley are the principal owners of TCM. Please see Brochure Supplements, Exhibit A, for more information on these principal owners and other individuals who formulate investment advice and have direct contact with clients, or have discretionary authority over client accounts.

Our investment advisory services are provided to you through an appropriately licensed and qualified individual who is an investment adviser representative of TCM (referred to as your “Investment Adviser Representative” or “IAR” throughout this brochure). Your IAR may either be an employee of TCM or an independent contractor. IARs are free to negotiate the fees to be charged for the services provided within the parameters set by TCM, as disclosed in Item 5 - Fees and Compensation of this brochure. It is possible that different IARs may charge different fees for providing the same service to clients. The specific level of services you will receive and the fees you will be charged will be specified in your investment advisory agreement.

As of December 31, 2025, we managed $150,824,050 on a discretionary basis, and no assets on a non-discretionary basis.

INSTITUTIONAL ADVISORY SERVICES

Sub-Advisory Services (Asset Management for Clients of other Investment Professionals)

Other registered investment advisers and investment professionals (the “primary advisers”) may recommend or hire us to manage their clients' assets. In these arrangements, we will implement and manage an investment strategy in the client’s account; however, we do not serve as the primary adviser to the client. The primary adviser will retain direct contact with the client and will manage the client relationship. The primary adviser’s client will typically enter into an advisory contract directly with us or alternatively, depending on the contractual arrangement the client has with the primary adviser, we may contract directly with the primary adviser to provide the client investment advisory services.

We will have exclusive investment discretion as to which securities shall be purchased or sold in the sub-advised client’s account in a manner consistent with the client’s selected product, investment objectives, policies and restrictions (if any) and the capabilities of the broker-dealer. In order to determine whether the strategy is suitable for a client, the primary adviser and the client are responsible for ascertaining the goals and objectives of the portfolio in question. In addition, we will obtain initial documentation of the client’s risk parameters and investment objectives. However, it is the responsibility of the primary adviser and/or the client to promptly notify us of any changes in financial condition of the client that would necessitate a change in the client’s investment objective.

Clients may impose certain written restrictions on us in the management of their investment portfolios, such as prohibiting the inclusion of certain types of investments in an investment portfolio or prohibiting the sale of certain investments held in the account at the commencement of the relationship.

Model Portfolios

We provide various model investment portfolios to turnkey asset management programs and other third-party investment platforms (together, the “Programs”). These model portfolios are used by other advisers in managing their clients’ assets. The advisers that enroll a client in the models will explain the elements of our investment strategies, the applicable fees and will perform all screening, suitability and compliance processes applicable to such transactions. The model portfolios and the recommendations implicit in the model portfolios generally are not tailored to the specific needs or circumstances of the end-client. We do not have investment discretion over the Programs’ assets and may not place trades or vote proxies in Program accounts. We earn a fee based on the value of the client assets assigned to models available on the Programs.

Retirement Plan Advisory Services

TCM provides non-discretionary Retirement Plan Consulting Services based on the needs of the plan and the services requested by the plan sponsor or named fiduciary. In general, these services can include an existing plan review and analysis, plan-level advice regarding fund selection and investment options, education services to plan participants, investment performance monitoring, and/or ongoing consulting. These pension consulting services will generally be non-discretionary and advisory in nature. The ultimate decision to act on behalf of the plan shall remain with the plan sponsor or other named fiduciary.

We will also assist with participant enrollment meetings and provide investment-related education to plan participants on such topics as:

- Diversification;
- Asset allocation;
- Risk tolerance; and
- Time horizon

We may also provide additional types of pension consulting services to plans on an individually negotiated basis. All services, whether discussed above or customized for the plan based upon requirements from the plan fiduciaries (which may include additional plan-level or participant-level services) shall be detailed in a written agreement and be consistent with the parameters set forth in the plan documents.

WEALTH MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Financial Planning and Ongoing Financial Consulting Services

We also offer financial planning and ongoing financial consulting services on a fee basis to help you achieve your stated financial goals and objectives. This services may be provided as a stand-alone basis or may be coupled with ongoing portfolio management. Financial planning services may be outsourced to a third-party financial planner depending on your specific needs.

Personal financial planning and consulting services may include, among other things, advice that addresses one or more areas of a client's financial situation, such as estate planning, risk management, retirement planning, budgeting and cash flow controls, retirement planning, education funding, and investment portfolio design. In some circumstances, planning advice may require the services of a specialist such as an accounting, insurance, trust provider, attorney, or tax accountant. We may recommend third-party service providers, but you are under no obligation to use any service provider we recommend. Fees for specialists will be negotiated between you and the service provider directly.

You are under no obligation to engage our firm for additional services or implement any financial planning recommendations we make.

Portfolio Management

We will manage your assets on a discretionary basis. As a discretionary adviser, we will have the authority to supervise and direct your investment portfolio without prior consultation with you. Notwithstanding the foregoing, you may impose certain written restrictions on us in the management of your investment portfolios, such as prohibiting the inclusion of certain types of investments in an investment portfolio or prohibiting the sale of certain investments held in the account at the commencement of the relationship. You should note, however, that restrictions imposed by you may adversely affect the composition and performance of your investment portfolio. You should also note that your investment portfolio is treated individually by giving consideration to each purchase or sale for your account. For these and other reasons, performance of client investment portfolios within the same investment objectives, goals and/or risk tolerance may differ and you should not expect that the composition or performance of your investment portfolios would necessarily be consistent with those of our similar clients.

We primarily allocate your investment management assets among mutual funds, ETFs, equities and individual debt in accordance with your investment objectives. We also provide advice about any type of investment held in your portfolios. We tailor our advisory services to your individual needs. We consult with you initially and on an ongoing basis to determine risk tolerance, time horizon and other factors that may impact your investment needs.

You are advised to promptly notify us if there are changes in your financial situation or investment objectives or if you wish to impose any reasonable restrictions upon our management services. You may impose reasonable restrictions or mandates on the management of your account (e.g., require that a portion of their assets be invested in socially responsible funds) if, in our sole discretion, the conditions will not materially impact the performance of a portfolio strategy or prove overly burdensome to our management efforts.

Third-Party Advisers / Sub-Advisors

When appropriate for a particular client, we will recommend or retain one or more Sub-Advisors or Third-Party Advisers (together “Managers”) to manage, pursuant to a grant of discretionary or non-discretionary trading authority, all or a portion of a client’s portfolio. Managers are evaluated based on a variety of factors, which typically include performance return history, area of specialization, management tenure, and risk profile.

With respect to assets managed by a Manager, our role will be to monitor the overall financial situation of the client, to monitor the investment approach and performance of the Manager, conduct on-going due diligence, and to assist the client in understanding the investments of the portfolio. In instances where the services of one or more Managers are utilized, the fee assessed by the Manager(s) will typically be separate and in addition to our fee. Clients are provided information about the Manager and its fees and strategies prior to engagement of the Manager.

55I, LLC (“55ip”)

TCM may utilize services provided by 55 Institutional Partners, LLC (“55ip”), a subsidiary of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (“JPM”), in connection with portfolio management. 55ip serves as a sub-advisor and provides investment-related services such as portfolio execution strategies, trading and rebalancing.

For clients with taxable accounts, we may also employ 55ip's tax-smart trading and rebalancing services to deliver more tax-advantaged outcomes. 55ip will assist with optimizing the execution of TCM's strategies to help reduce the client's tax burden.

TCM pays an asset-based percentage fee to place client accounts on the 55ip platform and to receive 55ip's sub-advisory services. Once the total amount of TCM client assets reaches $75 million, 55ip will no longer charge TCM the platform fee. Therefore, TCM is incentivized to place client assets on the 55ip platform in order to avoid the platform fee.

TCM's investment advisory services may also include the use of third-party model portfolios available on the 55ip investment platform. The Models are provided by affiliated and unaffiliated investment advisers of 55ip ("Model Providers"). 55ip will have discretionary authority over your account, which allows them and/or us to buy and sell investments in your account without asking for your approval in advance. 55ip makes these investments in accordance with the guidelines associated with each of the Models and determined by the Model Providers. 55ip's services include ongoing trading and rebalancing of accounts, with a focus on tax efficiency. TCM clients will pay both the Model Provider fee and TCM's management fee if enrolled in a third-party model portfolio. Please see additional information about the model portfolios and potential conflicts in Item 8.

Private Funds

Based on your risk tolerance, investment objectives and financial qualifications, we may also recommend that a portion of your assets be invested in private investment funds. You will be provided with private placement memorandums and other offering and subscription documentation that detail the nature, risks and associated fees of each private fund. It is important that you read and review these documents with your legal and tax advisors, before investing, to fully understand the types of investments, risks and conflicts pertaining to the funds.

Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP and Trademark Partners Fund, LP

We serve as the General Partner and investment manager of the Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP and the Trademark Partners Fund, LP (together, the "Funds"). The Funds are pooled investment vehicles that are not registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. Additionally, the Funds are not registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Investors must be "accredited investors," within the meaning under Regulation D of the Securities Act of 1933; and in some instances, must also be "qualified clients" within the meaning of Rule 205-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

From time to time, as appropriate and in accordance with the established investment plan and risk tolerance of certain of our clients, we recommend investments in the Funds. Clients investing in the Funds are assessed a fee that is a percentage of assets under management in the Funds. In addition, depending on the specific fund, we also receive a performance allocation from investors' accounts as described in the fund's offering documents. A performance-based fee can create an incentive to make riskier, more speculative investments than would be the case under a solely asset-based fee arrangement. Please see Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management below for more information.

Our investors are provided with a private placement memorandum ("PPM") and other offering and subscription documentation that detail the nature, risks and associated fees of the Funds. It is important that you read these documents before investing to fully understand the types of investments, risks and conflicts pertaining to the Funds. Please see Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations for more information about the Funds.

Retirement Plan/Account Rollovers

We are fiduciaries under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and when we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are also fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. We have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. If we recommend that you transfer your IRA or roll over your retirement assets into an account to be managed by us, such a recommendation creates a conflict of interest if we will earn a new (or increase our current) advisory fee because of the transfer or rollover. Investing in an IRA with us is usually more expensive than an employer-sponsored retirement plan. You are under no obligation to transfer your IRA or roll over plan assets to an IRA managed by us or to engage us to monitor and/or manage a plan account while maintained at your employer.

Item 5 - Fees and Compensation

General Fee Information

Fees paid to us are exclusive of all custodial and transaction costs paid to your custodian, brokers or other third-party consultants. Please see Item 12 - Brokerage Practices for additional information. Fees paid to us are also separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, ETFs (exchange traded funds), private funds or other investment pools to their shareholders (generally including a management fee and fund expenses, as described in each fund's prospectus or offering materials). You should review all fees charged by funds, brokers, us and others to fully understand the total amount of fees paid by you for investment and financial-related services.

Either party may terminate the Investment Advisory Agreement at any time, subject to any written notice requirements in the agreement. In the event of termination, any paid but unearned fees will be promptly refunded to you based on the number of days that the account was managed, and any fees due us from you will be invoiced or deducted from your account prior to termination.

In the event that our advisory fees are due and your advisory account does not contain sufficient funds to pay those advisory fees, we shall have authority to sell/redeem/liquidate securities held in your portfolio, in sufficient amounts, to pay our then due advisory fees.

At any specific point in time, depending upon perceived or anticipated market conditions/events (there being no guarantee that such anticipated market conditions/events will occur), we may maintain cash positions for defensive purposes. All cash positions (money markets, etc.) shall be included as part of assets under management for purposes of calculating our advisory fee.

When beneficial to you, individual fixed-income transactions may be effected through broker-dealers other than the account custodian, in which event, you generally will incur both the transaction fee charged by the executing broker-dealer and a "trade away" fee charged by the account custodian.

We do not use margin as an investment strategy. However, you may elect to borrow funds against your investment portfolio. For accounts with a margin balance, you are assessed the management fee based on the gross value of the assets in your account. In other words, your account value on which the fee is calculated is not reduced by the margin balance. This could create a conflict of interest where we may have an incentive to encourage the use of margin to maintain a higher market value and therefore receive a higher fee.

Other Compensation

Certain individuals associated with us are also licensed insurance agents and as such, they are entitled to receive commissions or other remuneration on the sale of insurance as well as other products. A conflict of interest exists to the extent that we recommend the purchase of insurance products where our supervised persons may be entitled to insurance commissions or other additional compensation. Our policy is to disclose all forms of compensation before any such transaction is executed. Under no circumstances will you pay both a commission to these individuals and a management fee to us on the same pool of assets. Please see Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations for more information.

INSTITUTIONAL ADVISORY SERVICES FEES

Sub-Advisory Services Fees

Fees for sub-advisory services are individually negotiated with each primary adviser and range up to 0.70% based on a percentage of assets under management. Among other things, factors considered when determining the fee include the strategy or strategies selected, aggregate number of client accounts to managed, and aggregate amount of client assets to be managed.

When we serve as the investment manager to accounts of other advisers and investment professionals (i.e., the primary advisers), there are three components that comprise the fee/pricing structure: the primary adviser's management fee, our management fee, and the broker-dealer's fee for brokerage and custody services. Sub-advised clients should see their primary adviser's Form ADV Part 2A for more information regarding its fees, as fees will vary by adviser. For brokerage and custody services, the broker-dealer will charge a transaction fee on trades executed in your account and may also charge custodial and other fees.

Payment arrangements, including the timing (in advance or arrears), frequency (monthly or quarterly, proration of asset flows (deposits and withdrawals), and billing procedures (invoicing or deduction of fees), will be agreed upon by us and the Primary Adviser. The specific manner in which advisory fees are charged by us will be established in the Primary Adviser's agreement with us, as applicable to each arrangement.

Model Portfolio Fees

When an adviser enrolls a client in a TCM model on a Program platform, the client will pay our model provider fee, their adviser's management fee, and the Program fee, which includes custodial, transaction and administration fees. Our fee may range up to 0.75% annually in these arrangements. The account application and/or contract the client executes to participate in the Program(s) will detail all applicable fees as well as the timing and manner of fee collection. We reserve the right to negotiate model provision fees with a client's adviser based on the adviser's total client assets enrolled in TCM models on the Program platform. Program fees vary by platform.

Retirement Plan Advisory Fees

TCM will require each Plan Client to make a selection of services in writing as part of the Retirement Plan Advisory Agreement(s) (the "Plan Agreement"), which sets forth the rights and obligations of TCM and the client. Fees for Retirement Plan Advisory Services will be negotiated prior to the signing of the Plan Agreement with the plan sponsor or named fiduciary on a case-by-case basis.

WEALTH MANAGEMENT SERVICES FEES

Financial Planning Fees

Financial planning services are typically provided for an hourly rate that ranges from $150 to $250 per hour, based on the professional providing the services. Fees are collected as follows: 50% of the estimated fee is payable in advance of services, with the remaining 50% due upon delivery of the plan. Your TCM hourly fee will include any planning services provided by an outsourced financial planner, where applicable.

If the planning agreement is terminated prior to completion of the financial plan, any prepaid and unearned fees will be returned to you. Conversely, if your initial deposit does not cover the hours of work performed by the planner, you will be invoiced for any outstanding fees. We may waive or discount the financial planning fee for clients who have retained us for portfolio management services in our sole discretion.

Portfolio Management Fees

Fees charged for our Portfolio Management Services are negotiable by each of our investment adviser representatives based upon, among other things, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, value of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, account retention and pro bono activities. As a result, similarly situated clients could pay different fees.

Asset-Based Fees

Each investment adviser representative is allowed to set TCM's investment advisory fee up to a maximum amount of 1.25% annually, and a tiered fee schedule may apply. The actual annual fee charged by TCM will be specified in each client's agreement with TCM. Some clients' fee schedules are based on prior contractual arrangements and/or historical fee schedules that differ from our current fee arrangements.

Fees are billed on a pro-rata basis quarterly in advance based on the value of the client's account on the last day of the previous quarter. If management begins after the start of a quarter, fees will be prorated accordingly. When assets are deposited into your account, at our discretion, we may charge a pro-rata fee for these additional assets based upon the number of days remaining in the billing quarter. No fee adjustments will be made for partial withdrawals. With your authorization, unless other arrangements are made, fees are normally debited directly from your account(s).

- 55ip Sub-Advisory Services
When we retain 55ip as a sub-advisor in conjunction with our management of your account, we will pay 55ip's asset-based platform/sub-advisory fee. These fees are billed directly to TCM by 55ip.
- 55ip Third-Party Model Portfolios
When we subscribe client accounts to the model portfolios provided by third-party managers available on the 55ip platform, the client will pay the model provider's fee (which varies based on the strategy and provider) and TCM's management fee. In some circumstances, the combined annual fee may be higher than fees charged by other investment advisers offering similar services or programs.

TCM typically calculates and deducts the model portfolio provider's fees from the client's custodial account on a monthly basis, based on the average daily balance of the account, either in advance or arrears. TCM's management fee is assessed as described above in "Asset-Based Fees."

Fees Applicable to Investments in Unaffiliated Private Funds

When you invest in an unaffiliated private fund, the fees and other expenses assessed by the private fund will be separate from and in addition to our advisory fee. Additionally, some of the private funds that we recommend charge performance-based fees. The applicable fees and expenses of each private fund are outlined in its offering documents and should be reviewed by you prior to investing in such funds. We do not receive any portion of these fees. The advisory fee is directly debited from one or more of your custodial accounts in accordance with your agreement with us. If you do not have a custodial account, you will be invoiced directly for the fees. Invoices are payable promptly upon receipt. The private funds also pay brokerage commissions, as well as other transaction and fund-related expenses.

Fees Applicable to Investments in the Affiliated Private Funds

We recommend that certain clients invest in the Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP, and/or Trademark Partners Fund, LP, (collectively, the "Affiliated Funds"). These private funds are affiliated with us because we are the general partner and/or manager of these funds; therefore, we have a financial interest in the Affiliated Funds.

Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP and Trademark Partners Fund, LP

As described in Item 4 – Advisory Business, we may recommend that you invest in the Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP and/or the Trademark Partners Fund, LP, as appropriate based upon your risk tolerance, sophistication, and financial qualifications. As the General Partner and Manager, we receive an annualized management fee of 1.0% from the Funds based on the amount of assets in the Funds. Trademark Partners Fund, LP investors also pay a 10% performance fee, which is only paid if a predetermined hurdle rate of return is achieved. Because of the receipt of this additional compensation, we have a conflict of interest when recommending you invest in the Fund. To help mitigate this conflict of interest, and depending on the IAR who services your account, we will either waive or reduce the advisory fee on assets invested in the Fund. You will be provided with a separate disclosure that details how your advisory fee will be affected in relation to an investment in the Affiliated Funds.

The Affiliated Funds also pay brokerage commissions, as well as other transaction and fund-related expenses. As General Partner, we access the assets of the Affiliated Funds for payment of their expenses as described in the Fund's PPM.

Specific procedures and restrictions apply to redemptions, as described in the PPMs of the Affiliated Funds. As General Partner, we, in our sole discretion, may impose minimum redemption amounts and require the maintenance of a minimum capital account size in the event of a partial redemption. We may also, in our sole discretion, require an investor to redeem all or part of its interest in an Affiliated Fund to ensure that the private fund remains in compliance with applicable law, or for any reason supported by the applicable limited partnership agreement.

For complete information, investors should rely on the Affiliated Funds' private placement memorandums, subscription documents, and/or other offering materials for detailed disclosures of the associated fees, expenses, and conflicts of interest. In case of a conflict between the information provided herein and the information provided in the Affiliated Funds' offering materials, the disclosures contained in the offering materials supersede the information herein.

Item 6 - Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

As noted above, we recommend that clients invest in the Affiliated Funds, certain of which have performance fee components. A performance arrangement is one in which a client is assessed a percentage of the net profits of the client's investment in the fund. We or our affiliate is paid a performance-based fee by the Affiliated Funds on gains each year, and such performance-based fee may be passed on in whole or in part to us or one of our related persons.

We do not offer performance-based fee arrangements for general portfolio management services, rather the only exposure certain clients will have to such arrangements is through their investment in an Affiliated Fund or in some cases, investments in unaffiliated private funds. Our Affiliated Funds only charge performance-based fees to clients who meet the eligibility requirements of Rule 205-3 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. The minimum requirements under the rule state that the client generally is not eligible unless he/she has at least $1,100,000 under management with TCM or has a net worth of at least $2,200,000.

Performance-based fees are calculated and assessed in arrears, and the client should carefully review the fee calculations for accuracy. The performance-based fee arrangements associated with the Affiliated Funds create certain conflicts of interest for us as they could create an incentive for us or our affiliate to take more risk or purchase investments that are expected to perform more favorably in the Affiliated Funds' portfolios than would otherwise be taken in a non-performance fee-based account. In addition, we may have an incentive to favor performance-based fee accounts by placing trades for these accounts before non-performance fee-based accounts.

We have a fiduciary duty to exercise good faith and act solely in the best interest of clients when recommending investments to clients and maintain policies and procedures, including a Code of Ethics which requires the interests of clients be placed ahead of other interests and portfolio management and trading policies that are designed to provide reasonable assurance that clients are treated fairly over time to address these conflicts of interest.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

We serve individuals, pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable organizations, estates and trusts and pooled investment vehicles. We do not generally impose a minimum portfolio value for conventional wealth management services or a minimum fee.

We may, at our discretion, make exceptions to the foregoing or negotiate special fee arrangements where we deem it appropriate under the circumstances.

We also manage certain accounts for our employees and their family members, and the principal owners, their family members and certain employees and their family members have investments in the Affiliated Funds. Such accounts/investments are treated like other client accounts or investors including portfolio management and trading decisions. TCM maintains portfolio management and trading policies and procedures designed to address conflicts of interest associated with these accounts and ensure that all client accounts are treated fairly over time.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Investment Strategies

We manage most of our portfolios utilizing an active strategy guided by our principal investment model. Our investment model is a proprietary, rules-based tactical asset allocation model designed to react to current market conditions. The model uses a variety of quantitative measures to determine the overall risk levels in the marketplace. These levels determine the rules we use to buy and sell investments for client accounts. Our investment model seeks to:

- Participate in gains when stock and/or bond market conditions are good
- Reduce exposure to the markets when conditions are poor
- Continually control portfolio risk through tactical asset allocation

There can be no assurance that an investment model will achieve its objectives. Please review “Quantitative Model Risk” in the Risk of Loss section below for more information.

We primarily allocate client investment assets among various exchange traded funds (“ETFs”), mutual funds, fixed income securities, individual equity (stocks), and on a discretionary basis. In addition, when appropriate, we may recommend that you invest in a private fund, including one or more of our Affiliated Funds. Your unique investment goals, investment horizon, risk tolerance and financial qualifications will determine the allocation among these security types.

From time to time, we utilize ETFs that are designed to perform in an inverse relationship to certain market indices as an investment strategy and/or for the purpose of hedging against downside market risk. There can be no assurance that any such strategy will prove profitable or successful. Inverse ETFs are subject to many risks, which are described in the “Investment Risk” section below.

Private funds are generally evaluated based on the previous performance and reputation of the manager, underlying fund investments, fee structure, overall risk and returns, portfolio transparency, liquidity and other factors specific to the type of investments involved.

In addition to other research and resources we use, we have an arrangement with a third-party consultant to help support our investment management processes. Among other things, the consultant assists us with due diligence and market analysis. The recommendations provided by our consultant are among many inputs considered by us when formulating and implementing our investment advice.

55ip Model Portfolios

55ip receives monetary compensation related to the execution of investments, creating an incentive to recommend investments that generate fees for 55ip or its affiliates. While 55IP has a duty to act in the best interest of TCM and its clients, it is not obligated to recommend any specific investment opportunity or to source investments outside of its own offerings. Additionally, 55ip and its affiliates may provide services or receive compensation from investment products used in client accounts, including as an investment adviser, custodian, transfer agent, or other service provider. This arrangement can create potential conflicts of interest, as 55ip has financial incentives to include certain investment products in portfolios. The parent company of 55ip, JPM, may receive an economic benefit through the inclusion of JP Morgan Asset Management (“JPMAM”) funds in the portfolio. Also, the cost of 55ip to TCM and its clients can be offset through the inclusion of JPMAM funds.

Methods of Analysis

We may utilize the following methods of security analysis:

- Fundamental - (analysis performed on historical and present data to screen certain investments)
- Quantitative - (analysis performed on historical and present data, focusing on price, volume, breadth and other data to measure market risk.

We may utilize the following investment strategies when implementing investment advice given to clients:

- Long Term Purchases (securities held at least a year)
- Short Term Purchases (securities sold within a year)
- Trading (securities sold within thirty (30) days)

Private funds are generally evaluated based on the previous performance and reputation of the manager, fee structure, overall risk and returns, portfolio transparency, liquidity and other factors specific to the type of investments involved.

Investment Risk

Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, and it should not be assumed that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy (including the investments and/or investment strategies recommended or undertaken by us will be profitable or equal any specific performance level(s).

Every method of analysis has its own inherent risks. To perform an accurate market analysis, we must have access to current/new market information. We have no control over the dissemination rate of market information; therefore, unbeknownst to us certain analyses may be compiled with outdated market information, severely limiting the value of our analysis. Furthermore, an accurate market analysis can only produce a forecast of the direction of market values. There can be no assurances that a forecasted change in market value will materialize into actionable and/or profitable investment opportunities.

Our primary investment strategies - Long Term Purchases, Short Term Purchases, and Trading - are fundamental investment strategies. However, every investment strategy has its own inherent risks and limitations. For example, longer-term investment strategies require a longer investment time period to allow for the strategy to potentially develop. Shorter term investment strategies require a shorter investment time period to potentially develop but, as a result of more frequent trading, may incur higher transactional costs when compared to a longer-term investment strategy. Trading, an investment strategy that requires the purchase and sale of securities within a thirty (30) day investment time period, involves a very short investment time period but will incur higher transaction costs when compared to a short-term investment strategy and substantially higher transaction costs than a longer-term investment strategy.

Cash Positions

At any specific point in time, depending upon perceived or anticipated market conditions/events (there being no guarantee that such anticipated market conditions/events will occur), we may maintain cash positions for defensive purposes. All cash positions (money markets, etc.) shall be included as part of assets under management for purposes of calculating our advisory fee. While assets are maintained in cash or cash equivalents, such amounts could miss market advances, and depending upon current yields, at any point in time, the firm's advisory fee could exceed the interest paid by the client's cash or cash equivalent positions.

Risk of Loss

While we seek to diversify clients' investment portfolios across various asset classes in an effort to reduce risk of loss, all investment portfolios are subject to risks that clients should be prepared to bear. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that client investment portfolios will be able to fully meet their investment objectives and goals, or that investments will not lose money.

Below is a description of several of the principal risks that client investment portfolios face.

Management Risks. While we manage client investment portfolios based on our experience, research and proprietary methods, the value of client investment portfolios will change daily based on the performance of the underlying securities in which they are invested. The ability of the portfolio to meet its objective is directly related to the ability of our investment model to correctly quantify market risk and react accordingly to current and developing market trends. Thus, client investment portfolios are subject to the risk that we allocate client assets to individual securities and/or asset classes that are adversely affected by unanticipated market movements, and the risk that our specific investment choices could underperform their relevant indexes.

Quantitative Model Risk. When executing an investment strategy using a proprietary quantitative or investment model, securities or other financial instruments selected may perform differently than expected, or from the market as a whole, as a result of a model's component factors, the weight placed on each factor, changes from the factors' historical trends, and technical issues in the construction, implementation and maintenance of the models (e.g., data problems, software issues.). There can be no assurance that a model will achieve its objective or that the methodology employed by a portfolio strategy will eliminate exposure to downward trends and/or volatility in the markets or provide immediate exposure to upward trends and/or volatility in the markets.

Risks of Investments in Mutual Funds, ETFs and Other Investment Pools. As described above, we may invest client portfolios in mutual funds, ETFs and other investment pools ("pooled investment funds"). Investments in pooled investment funds are generally less risky than investing in individual securities because of their diversified portfolios; however, these investments are still subject to risks associated with the markets in which they invest. In addition, pooled investment funds' success will be related to the skills of their particular managers and their performance in managing their funds. Pooled investment funds are also subject to risks due to regulatory restrictions applicable to registered investment companies under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

ETF Tracking Error Risks. ETF performance may not exactly match the performance of the index or market benchmark that the ETF is designed to track because 1) the ETF will incur expenses and transaction costs not incurred by any applicable index or market benchmark; 2) certain securities comprising the index or market benchmark tracked by the ETF may, from time to time, temporarily be unavailable; and 3) supply and demand in the market for either the ETF and/or for the securities held by the ETF may cause the ETF shares to trade at a premium or discount to the actual net asset value of the securities owned by the ETF.

Inverse ETFs Risk. Inverse ETFs are designed to replicate the opposite direction of market indices. These ETFs often use a combination of futures, swaps, short sales, and other derivatives to achieve these objectives. Most inverse ETFs are designed to achieve these results on a daily basis only. This means that over periods longer than a trading day, the value of inverse ETFs can and usually do deviate from the performance of the index they are designed to track. Over longer periods of time or in situations of high volatility, these deviations and risk from loss can be substantial and can result in losses in all or a part of a client's investment. This type of ETF is best suited for risk-tolerant investors who are comfortable with taking on the risks inherent to inverse ETFs.

Equity Market Risks. We will generally invest portions of client assets directly into equity investments, primarily stocks, or into pooled investment funds that invest in the stock market. As noted above, while pooled investments have diversified portfolios that may make them less risky than investments in individual securities, funds that invest in stocks and other equity securities are nevertheless subject to the risks of the stock market. These risks include, without limitation, the risks that stock values will decline due to daily fluctuations in the markets, and that stock values will decline over longer periods (e.g., bear markets) due to general market declines in the stock prices for all companies, regardless of any individual security's prospects.

Fixed Income Risks. We may invest portions of client assets directly into fixed income instruments, such as bonds and notes, or may invest in pooled investment funds that invest in bonds and notes. While investing in fixed income instruments, either directly or through pooled investment funds, is generally less volatile than investing in stock (equity) markets, fixed income investments nevertheless are subject to risks. These risks include, without limitation, interest rate risks (risks that changes in interest rates will devalue the investments), credit risks (risks of default by borrowers), or maturity risk (risks that bonds or notes will change value from the time of issuance to maturity).

Foreign Securities Risks. We may invest portions of client assets into pooled investment funds that invest internationally. While foreign investments are important to the diversification of client investment portfolios, they carry risks that may be different from U.S. investments. For example, foreign investments may not be subject to uniform audit, financial reporting or disclosure standards, practices or requirements comparable to those found in the U.S. Foreign investments are also subject to foreign withholding taxes and the risk of adverse changes in investment or exchange control regulations. Finally, foreign investments may involve currency risk, which is the risk that the value of the foreign security will decrease due to changes in the relative value of the U.S. dollar and the security's underlying foreign currency.

Risks Related to Private Funds. From time to time and as appropriate, we may invest a portion of a client's portfolio in Private Funds. The value of client portfolios will be based in part on the value of Private Funds in which they are invested, the success of each of which will depend heavily upon the efforts of their respective Managers. When the investment objectives and strategies of a Manager are out of favor in the market or a Manager makes unsuccessful investment decisions, the Private Fund may lose money. A client account may lose a substantial percentage of its value if the investment objectives and strategies of many or most of the Private Funds in which it is invested are out of favor at the same time, or many or most of the Managers make unsuccessful investment decisions at the same time. Private Funds are generally subject to various risk factors and liquidity constraints, a complete discussion of which is set forth in each fund's offering documents, which will be provided to clients for review and consideration prior to investing. Investing in Private Funds is intended only for experienced and sophisticated investors who are willing to bear the high economic risks of the investment. Clients should carefully review and consider potential risks before investing in private funds. Certain of these risks may include loss of all or a substantial portion of the investment due to leveraging, short-selling, or other speculative practices, lack of liquidity because of redemption terms and conditions and that there may not and will not be a secondary market for the fund, volatility of returns, restrictions on transferring interests in the fund, a potential lack of diversification, higher fees than mutual funds, lack of information regarding valuations and pricing.

Third-Party Adviser Risk. Relying on the investment advisory or management services of an independent and unaffiliated third-party adviser means that clients will be subject to such Third-Party Adviser's continued ability to achieve its investment mandates, as well as specific client investment objectives and restrictions. To the extent that a Third-Party Adviser is dependent on the services or intellectual capital of a select few individuals, the departure or death of such individuals may have a material impact on the continued viability of such Third-Party Adviser and its ability to continue serving client accounts. There can be no guarantee that a Third-Party Adviser will meet its performance expectations, or that its services will be free of trading or management-related Cyber Security Risk. With the increased use of technologies such as the Internet to conduct business, a portfolio is susceptible to operational, information security and related risks. In general, cyber incidents can result from deliberate attacks or unintentional events and are not limited to, gaining unauthorized access to digital systems, and misappropriating assets or sensitive information, corrupting data, or causing operational disruption, including the denial-of-service attacks on websites. Cyber security failures or breaches by a third-party service provider and the issuers of securities in which the portfolio invests, have the ability to cause disruptions and impact business operations, potentially resulting in financial losses, the inability to transact business, violations of applicable privacy and other laws, regulatory fines, penalties, reputational damage, reimbursement or other compensation costs, and/or additional compliance costs, including the cost to prevent cyber incidents.

Margin Risk. We use margin as an investment strategy in limited situations as appropriate in light of client circumstances. For accounts with a margin balance, you are assessed the management fee based on the gross value of the assets in your account. In other words, your account value on which the fee is calculated is not reduced by the margin balance. This could create a conflict of interest in which we may have an incentive to encourage the use of margin as this could result in a higher market value and therefore an increased management fee. In addition, clients can elect to borrow funds against their investment portfolio for uses other than investing inside the managed account. When securities are purchased, they may be paid for in full or the client may borrow part of the purchase price from the account custodian. If a client borrows part of the purchase price, the client is engaging in margin transactions and there is risk involved with this. The securities held in a margin account are collateral for the custodian that loaned the client money. If those securities decline in value, then the value of the collateral supporting the client's loan also declines. As a result, the brokerage firm is required to take action to maintain the necessary level of equity in the client's account. The brokerage firm may issue a margin call and/or sell other assets in the client's account to accomplish this. It is important that clients fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin, including but not limited to:

- It is possible to lose more funds than is deposited into a margin account;
- The account custodian can force the sale of assets in the account;
- The account custodian can sell assets in the account without contacting the client first;
- The account holder is not entitled to choose which assets in a margin account may be sold to meet a margin call;
- The account custodian can increase its "house" maintenance margin requirements at any time without advance written notice; and
- The account holder is not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's evaluation of us or the integrity of our management. We have no disciplinary events to report.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Trademark Sports Company, LLC dba Trademark Sports Management

Joseph Ezernack, CEO and owner of TCM, is an 18% owner of Trademark Sports Company, LLC dba Trademark Sports Management (Trademark Sports). Shane Strickland is the majority owner of Trademark Sports. Trademark Sports provides concierge services to professional athletes, assisting them with a variety of personal and financial needs. When associated persons of Trademark Sports determine that clients are in need of financial planning or investment advisory services, the client may be referred to TCM. As an owner of both TCM and Trademark Sports, Mr. Ezernack will benefit financially when clients are referred between the two firms. Further, employees of Trademark Sports can earn referral compensation when Trademark Sports' clients hire TCM for financial planning and/or investment advisory services. The receipt of referral compensation could influence employees of Trademark Sports to refer clients to TCM rather than another investment advisory firm. Clients of Trademark Sports are not obligated to use the services of TCM and may select alternative providers in their sole discretion.

Licensed Insurance Agents

Certain individuals associated with us are also licensed insurance agents and as such, they are entitled to receive commissions or other remuneration on the sale of insurance as well as other products. The receipt of such compensation can present a conflict of interest for the supervised person because he or she could recommend an insurance product to you based on his or her receipt of compensation rather than based on your best interest. You are not obligated to purchase any recommended insurance product through our supervised persons and are free to select the service provider of your choice to implement any insurance recommendations.

Affiliated Private Funds

As described in Item 4 - Advisory Business, we recommend that certain clients invest in the Trademark Capital Risk Managed Fund, LP and/or the Trademark Partners Fund, LP,. These private funds are affiliated with us because we are the general partner and manager of these funds; therefore, we have a financial interest in the Affiliated Funds. Additionally, our principal owners/the firm also have ownership interests in certain of the Affiliated Funds. This creates an incentive for us to recommend investments in the Affiliated Funds, which presents a conflict of interest. To the extent applicable, we will explain any advisory fees, other compensation or incentive associated with the investment. To help mitigate conflict of interest, we have waived or reduced the advisory fee on assets invested in the Affiliated Funds. Please see Item 5 - Fees and Compensation for a summary of fees charged for investments in Affiliated Funds. Also, such private investment fund offering memorandum, operating agreement and/or subscription documents include a discussion and disclosure of any known conflicts of interest and will also include disclosure of all applicable fees and expenses.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics and Personal Trading

We have adopted a Code of Ethics (“the Code”), the full text of which is available to you upon request. Our Code has several goals. First, the Code is designed to assist us in complying with applicable laws and regulations governing our investment advisory business. Under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, we owe fiduciary duties to our clients. Pursuant to these fiduciary duties, the Code requires persons associated with us (managers, officers and employees) to act with honesty, good faith and fair dealing in working with clients. In addition, the Code prohibits such associated persons from trading or otherwise acting on insider information.

Next, the Code sets forth guidelines for professional standards for TCM’s associated persons. Under the Code’s Professional Standards, TCM expects its associated persons to put the interests of our clients first, ahead of personal interests. In this regard, TCM associated persons are not to take inappropriate advantage of their positions in relation to our clients.

Third, the Code sets forth policies and procedures to monitor and review the personal trading activities of TCM’s access persons (i.e., those who possess access to TCM’s advisory recommendations). From time to time, TCM’s access persons may invest in the same securities recommended to clients. Under our Code, we have adopted procedures designed to reduce or eliminate conflicts of interest that this could potentially cause. The Code’s personal trading policies include procedures for limitations on personal securities transactions of TCM’s access persons, reporting and review of such trading and pre-clearance of certain types of personal trading activities. These policies are designed to discourage and prohibit personal trading that would disadvantage clients. The Code also provides for disciplinary action as appropriate for violations.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

As described in Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations above, when appropriate TCM recommends that clients invest in its Affiliated Funds. We have an incentive to recommend investments in the Affiliated Funds to clients as such investments could increase our fees and the performance of such funds. In addition to the disclosures available in this Brochure, to the extent applicable, a representative of TCM will explain any dual advisory fees or other compensation or incentive associated with the investment. Also, such private investment fund offering memorandum and/or subscription documents include a discussion and disclosure of any known conflicts of interest and will also include disclosure of all applicable fees and expenses. Finally, TCM has a fiduciary duty to exercise good faith and act solely in the best interest of clients when recommending investments to clients and maintains policies and procedures, including a Code of Ethics which requires the interests of clients be placed ahead of other interests and portfolio management and trading policies which are designed to provide reasonable assurance that clients are treated fairly over time to address these conflicts of interest.

Because associated persons may invest in the same securities as those purchased in client accounts, we have instituted a black-out period, which means that associated persons are prohibited from trading the same security on the same day a client trades the same security (subject to certain exemptions). The goal of this policy is to avoid any conflicts of interest that arise in these situations. However, in the event of other identified potential trading conflicts of interest, our goal is to place client interests first.

Consistent with the foregoing, we maintain policies regarding participation in initial public offerings (“IPOs”) and private placements to comply with applicable laws and avoid conflicts with client transactions. If a TCM access person wishes to participate in an IPO or invest in a private placement, he or she must submit a pre-clearance request and obtain the approval of the Chief Compliance Officer.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

Best Execution and Benefits of Brokerage Selection

In the event that you request that we recommend a broker-dealer/custodian for execution and/or custodial services (exclusive of those clients that may direct us to use a specific broker-dealer/custodian), we typically recommend that our clients use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (“Schwab”), member FINRA/SIPC, as a qualified custodian. We also recommend the program sponsored by Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services¹ (“Fidelity”), member FINRA/SIPC. Schwab and Fidelity (together, the “Custodians”) are independent [and unaffiliated] SEC-registered broker-dealers. Prior to engaging us to provide investment management services, you will be required to enter into a formal Asset Management Agreement with us setting forth the terms and conditions under which we shall manage your assets, and a separate custodial/clearing agreement with each designated broker-dealer/custodian.

Factors that we consider in recommending the Custodians (or any other broker-dealer/custodian to clients) include historical relationship with us, financial strength, reputation, execution capabilities, pricing, research, and service. Although the commissions and/or transaction fees paid by our clients shall comply with our duty to obtain best execution, you may pay a commission that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where we determine, in good faith, that the commission/transaction fee is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although we will seek competitive rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client account transactions.

You are not generally charged separately for custody services but compensate the Custodians through commissions and other transaction-related fees for securities trades that are executed through or that settle into your custodial accounts. Certain trades may not incur transaction fees or commissions. You should be aware that the Custodians are also compensated by earning interest on the uninvested cash in your account. We do not share in any of the Custodians' fees or other compensation. Any brokerage commissions or transaction fees charged by the designated broker-dealer/custodian are exclusive of, and in addition to, our investment management fee. Our best execution responsibility is qualified if securities that we purchase for client accounts are mutual funds that trade at net asset value as determined at the daily market close.

The Custodians charge you a flat dollar amount as a “prime broker” or “trade away” fee for each trade that we have executed by a different broker-dealer but where the securities bought or the funds from the securities sold are deposited (settled) into your account. These fees are in addition to the commissions or other compensation you pay the executing broker-dealer. Because of this, in order to minimize your trading costs, we have your Custodian(s) execute most trades for your account. We have determined that having your Custodian(s) execute most trades is consistent with our duty to seek “best execution” of your trades. Best execution means the most favorable terms for a transaction based on all relevant factors.

Research and Additional Benefits

When determining whether to recommend that you utilize the services of a particular broker-dealer/custodian, we may receive from the Custodians (or another broker-dealer/custodian) without cost (and/or at a discount) support services and/or products, certain of which assist us to better monitor and service client accounts maintained at such institutions. Included within the support services that may be obtained by us may be investment-related research, pricing information and market data, software and other technology that provide access to client account data, compliance and/or practice management-related publications, discounted or gratis consulting services, discounted and/or gratis attendance at conferences, meetings, and other educational and/or social events, marketing support, computer hardware and/or software and/or other products used by us in furtherance of our investment advisory business operations. These services are not soft dollar arrangements but are part of the institutional platforms offered by the Custodians.

As indicated above, certain of the support services and/or products that may be received may assist us in managing and administering client accounts. Others do not directly provide such assistance, but rather assist us to manage and further develop our business enterprise. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of our accounts, including accounts not maintained at the Custodians.

Our clients do not pay more for investment transactions effected and/or assets maintained at the Custodians as a result of this arrangement. There is no corresponding commitment made by us to the Custodians or any other entity to invest any specific amount or percentage of client assets in any specific mutual funds, securities or other investment products as a result of the above arrangement.

Directed Brokerage

With the exception of Plan accounts and certain legacy accounts, we do not generally accept directed brokerage arrangements (when a client requires that account transactions be effected through a specific broker-dealer). In such client-directed arrangements, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for his or her account with that broker-dealer, and we will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to “batch” the client's transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts managed by us. As a result, the client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case.

In the event that the client directs us to effect securities transactions for the client's accounts through a specific broker-dealer, the client correspondingly acknowledges that such direction may cause the accounts to incur higher commissions or transaction costs than the accounts would otherwise incur had the client determined to effect account transactions through alternative clearing arrangements that may be available through us. Not all advisers require their clients to utilize a specific custodian.

Aggregated Trade Policy

We may enter trades as a block where possible and when advantageous to clients whose accounts have a need to buy or sell shares of the same security. This method permits the trading of aggregate blocks of securities composed of assets from multiple client accounts. It allows us to execute trades in a timely, equitable manner, and may reduce overall costs to clients.

We will only aggregate transactions when we believe that aggregation is consistent with our duty to seek best execution (which includes the duty to seek best price) for our clients, and is consistent with the terms of our Investment Advisory Agreement with each client for which trades are being aggregated. No advisory client will be favored over any other client; each client that participates in an aggregated order will participate at the average share price for all our transactions in a given security on a given business day. Transaction costs for participating accounts will be assessed at the custodian's commission rate applicable to each account; therefore, transaction costs may vary among accounts. Accounts may be excluded from a block due to tax considerations, client direction or other factors making the account's participation ineligible or impractical.

We will prepare, before entering an aggregated order, a written statement ("Allocation Statement") specifying the participating client accounts and how we intend to allocate the order among those clients. If the aggregated order is filled in its entirety, it will be allocated among clients in accordance with the Allocation Statement. If the order is partially filled, it will generally be allocated pro-rata, based on the Allocation Statement, or randomly in certain circumstances. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the order may be allocated on a basis different from that specified in the Allocation Statement if all client accounts receive fair and equitable treatment, and the reason for different allocation is explained in writing and is approved by an appropriate individual/officer of TCM. Our books and records will separately reflect, for each client account included in a block trade, the securities held by and bought and sold for that account. We will receive no additional compensation or remuneration of any kind as a result of the proposed aggregation.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

Managed portfolios are reviewed at least quarterly but may be reviewed more often if requested by you, upon receipt of information material to the management of the portfolio, or at any time such review is deemed necessary or advisable by us. These factors generally include, but are not limited to, the following: change in your general circumstances (marriage, divorce, retirement) or economic, political or market conditions. A qualified Financial Advisor of the firm will review your account(s).

For those clients to whom we provide separate financial planning and/or consulting services, reviews are conducted on an as needed or agreed upon basis. Such reviews are conducted by one of our Financial Advisors.

Account custodians are responsible for providing monthly or quarterly account statements which reflect the positions (and current pricing) in each account as well as transactions in each account, including fees paid from an account. Account custodians also provide prompt confirmation of all trading activity, and year-end tax statements, such as 1099 forms. Upon request, we will periodically provide a report for each managed portfolio. This written report normally includes a summary of portfolio holdings and performance results.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

As noted above, we receive an economic benefit from the Custodians in the form of support products and services they make available to us and other independent investment advisors that have their clients maintain accounts at the Custodians. These products and services, how they benefit our firm, and the related conflicts of interest are described in Item 12 - Brokerage Practices. The availability of the Custodians' products and services to us is based solely on our participation in the programs and not in the provision of any particular investment advice.

From time to time, we may enter into arrangements with third parties (“Promoters”) to identify and refer potential clients to us. Consistent with legal requirements under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended, we enter into written agreements with Promoters under which, among other things, Promoters are required to disclose their compensation arrangements to prospective clients before such clients enter into an agreement with us. Clients’ advisory fees are not higher than they would otherwise be because of the referral fees paid.

Item 15 - Custody

It is your custodian’s responsibility to provide you with confirmations of trading activity, tax forms and at least quarterly account statements. You are advised to review this information carefully, and to notify us of any questions or concerns. You are also asked to promptly notify us if the custodian fails to provide statements on each account held.

From time to time and in accordance with our agreement with you, we will provide additional reports. The account balances reflected on these reports should be compared to the balances shown on the brokerage statements to ensure accuracy. At times there may be small differences due to the timing of dividend reporting, pending trades or other similar issues.

Affiliated Funds

By virtue of our or our affiliate’s role as General Partner/Managing Member of the Affiliated Funds, we are considered to have custody of investor assets in the Affiliated Funds. In accordance with regulatory requirements, the Affiliated Funds receive an annual audit from an independent accounting firm registered with, and subject to, regular inspection by the Public Company Account Oversight Board.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

As described above under Item 4 - Advisory Business, we manage portfolios on a discretionary basis. This means that we will execute trades within your portfolio without your specific consent for each transaction. For discretionary accounts, you will execute a Limited Power of Attorney (“LPOA”) giving us the authority to carry out various activities in your account, generally including the following: trade execution; the ability to request checks on your behalf; and the withdrawal of advisory fees directly from the account. We then direct investment of your portfolio using our discretionary authority. You may limit the terms of the LPOA to the extent consistent with your Investment Advisory Agreement with us and the requirements of your custodian. The discretionary relationship is further described in the Investment Advisory Agreement.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

As a policy and in accordance with our client agreement, we do not vote proxies related to securities held in your accounts. The custodian of the account will normally provide proxy materials directly to you. You may contact us with questions relating to proxy procedures and proposals; however, we generally do not research particular proxy proposals.

Item 18 - Financial Information

We do not require nor solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance, and therefore have no disclosure with respect to this item.

Set forth below is the Summary of Material Changes for Trademark Capital Management, Inc. (“TCM or “we”) since our last annual update to our Brochure made on March 25, 2025:

Item 4 – Advisory Business was updated to reflect:

- We provide various model investment portfolios to turnkey asset management programs and other third-party investment platforms. These model portfolios are used by other advisers in managing their clients’ assets.
- We no longer serve as a sub-adviser to the Trademark Capital Multifactor Fund and the Trademark Capital Multifactor Conservative Fund.
- The “Stand Alone 3(38) Program” and “Full Service 3(38) and 3(21) Programs” are no longer TCM service offerings.
- We may recommend Third-Party Managers or Sub-Advisors to manage all or a portion of a client’s account.
- 55I, LLC (“55ip”) acts as a Sub-Advisor and provides TCM and certain of its clients services that may include trading, rebalancing, and tax management services. TCM’s investment advisory services may also include the use of third-party model portfolios available on the 55ip investment platform.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation was updated to reflect:

- We charge other advisers to access our investment models on third-party investment platforms. Model fees are individually negotiated with the third-party adviser using the model to facilitate the management of their clients’ assets and may range up to 0.75% annually.
- We removed information pertaining to Collective Investment Fund advisory fees.
- Fees and compensation disclosures pertaining to our “Stand Alone 3(38) Program” and “Full Service 3(38) and 3(21) Programs” were removed as we no longer offer these services.
- When we retain 55ip as a sub-advisor in conjunction with our management of your account, we will pay 55ip’s asset-based platform/sub-advisory fee. These fees are billed directly to TCM by 55ip.
- When we subscribe client accounts to the model portfolios provided by third-party managers available on the 55ip platform, the client will pay the model provider’s fee (which varies based on the strategy and provider) and TCM’s management fee.
- VIA Capital Investments, LLC and VIA Capital Investments II, LLC have been closed.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss has been updated to reflect:

- 55ip and its affiliates have various conflicts of interest when acting as a Sub-Advisor when choosing investments and providing services to TCM and its clients, including among other things, that 55ip may provide services or receive compensation from investment products used in client accounts. The parent company of 55ip, JP Morgan, may receive an economic benefit through the inclusion of JP Morgan Asset Management (“JPMAM”) funds in the portfolio.
- We use Third-Party Advisors and the associated risks.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations has been updated to reflect:

- We are no longer affiliated with the Trademark Capital Multifactor Fund and the Trademark Capital Multifactor Conservative Fund.
- We are no longer affiliated with VIA Capital LLC, VIA Capital Investments I, LLC and VIA Capital Investments II, LLC.
